

THE MAFIA.

It is interesting to note the difference of opinion throughout the world in regard to the New Orleans lynching. At first all the leading papers denounced the citizens of New Orleans for their violence, but as they learn more about it they modify their statements wonderfully. It is also worthy of note that while the Eastern press, especially in the North, denounce the Louisianians in unmeasured terms, the press of the Pacific Coast defend them. Californians know that there are times when lynch law is the only law that outlaws respect. The San Francisco Evening Post says editorially:

If one-half the evidence against the prisoners who were shot is true they got their deserts when the enraged populace faced them in their cells and riddled them with bullets. America cannot afford to permit the introduction of vendetta customs with the immigrants from Italy.

The San Francisco Call says: Organizations like the Mafia cannot be tolerated in a free country. There is no excuse for them. Under a system of impartial laws there is a remedy for every oppression. A Sicilian has the same civil rights as an American. He is protected in life, liberty and property precisely as if he were a native of the country. The "last straw" in the case of the Sicilians was the belief that they had tampered with the Courts.

The San Francisco Examiner says:

No intelligent Italian should be so thoughtless as to make the cause of the New Orleans criminals his own. Italians who are American citizens have just the same interest as the rest of us in wishing for the exclusion forever from the United States of such murderous and un-American organizations as the Mafia.

The Grass Valley Union says editorially:

It is notorious that the better classes of Italians in New Orleans lived in dread of the Mafia, as an association of blackmailers and assassins.

Mob law is always to be deprecated, and it were better that a community should endure much before resorting to that method of correcting lawlessness, but there are times when no other corrective will suffice to maintain order and ensure the administration of law. New Orleans struck for its own protection, and through mob violence law and order will be restored.

The London Eng., St. James Gazette, referring to the same subject says:

The incident shows that native Americans have not lost the quality of stern resolution which is sometimes dissolved by the life of comfort and luxury and modern society. The men who organized this defiance of formal justice are not ashamed of what they have done. They have defeated a society of foreign ruffians, who were trying to terrorize the whole city. It is doubtful if John Bull has enough grit left in him to protest in as emphatic a manner as the citizens of New Orleans have protested.

The London Star is of the opinion that the "impressive feature of the New Orleans affair was the perfect orderliness maintained throughout the proceedings. Here champions of law and order stand aghast at such proceeding. The American democracy has sounder notions as to what law and order really mean."

There is considerable interest felt here in the California Senatorial question, and people view with apprehension the possible election of Felton, as he has always, in and out of Congress, been the pronounced and unrelenting enemy of silver. It is to be hoped that the debtor class all over the State will see to it that an enemy of silver shall not represent them in the upper house of Congress.
